

Read the following texts and associate them to the appropriate ChatGPT prompt and find the odd one out. Be ready to justify your choices!

Mother: Hey, sweetheart, we need to talk about your school performance and this Family Link app we installed. 1
 Son: Ugh, why are you always on my case? It's just a stupid app.
 Mother: It's not just about the app; it's about your grades. The app is a tool to help us understand and support you better.
 Son: Well, maybe if you didn't invade my privacy, I could focus on my studies.
 Mother: We're not invading your privacy; we're trying to create a balance. Your success in school affects our family's well-being.
 Son: I don't see how my grades have anything to do with the family. It's my life.
 Mother: We want to help you succeed and build a strong future together.
 Son: I still think it's unfair. I can handle my own stuff.
 Mother: We believe in you, but sometimes we all need a little help. Let's find a compromise and use the app to create a healthier balance.
 Son: Fine, but don't expect me to love it.
 Mother: It's not about love; it's about working together as a family. Your success is our success. Let's make this app a tool for improvement rather than a source of conflict.

Mother: I've been thinking, our phone use is affecting our family connection. We need to talk about it. 2
 Son: Yeah, I've noticed that too. It's like we're all in the same room, but not really.
 Mother: I agree. We've become addicted, and we aren't so close any more. We need a change.
 Son: What do you suggest?
 Mother: Let's establish some screen time limits for both of us. Maybe even have designated "phone-free" hours.
 Son: That could work. I miss the real conversations we used to have.
 Mother: Me too, sweetheart. Our family time is important. We shouldn't let screens get in the way.
 Son: Alright, let's do it. We'll both make an effort to be more present and engaged.
 Mother: I'm proud of us for recognizing this issue. Together, we can create a healthier balance and strengthen our family ties.
 Son: Let's break free from this phone addiction and focus on what truly matters.

Mother: Hey, I've noticed you don't spend much time on your phone lately. Everything okay?
 Son: Yeah, just not into it as much, I guess.
 Mother: Well, I've been using the Family Link app to manage screen time, but you don't seem to need it.
 Son: I'd rather be doing other things. Phones are kind of a distraction.
 Mother: That's a good perspective. I, on the other hand, find myself spending too much time on mine. Maybe I need to reassess.
 Son: Yeah, it's all about balance. You know, being present in the moment.
 Mother: You're right. I'll try to be more mindful. How about we set some family screen time limits together?
 Son: Sure, that sounds fair. Let's keep things in check. 3
 Mother: Thanks for understanding, and I appreciate your approach to a healthier balance.
 Let's make sure we're both present for each other.

Mother: Hey, I've been thinking about your phone use. Your grades are excellent, but I sense you're not thrilled with how much I use mine.
 Son: Yeah, it's kind of frustrating. You're always on your phone, and it feels like you're not really here.
 Mother: I hear you, and I appreciate your honesty. Maybe I need to cut back. How about we set some boundaries for both of us?
 Son: That sounds fair. I just want us to spend more quality time together.
 Mother: I totally get that. We'll find a balance. I also want to make sure I'm not setting a bad example.
 Son: Exactly. It's not just about me; it's about both of us being more present. 4
 Mother: Agreed. Let's make a pact to be mindful of our screen time and prioritize our moments together.
 Son: Thanks, Mom. I think it'll make a big difference.
 Mother: I'm proud of your maturity in bringing this up. Let's work on this together for a healthier family connection.

Write a short conversation between a mother and her son about the family link app. The son recently got addicted. His school results are fine but his mother worries because he looks a little depressed. A

Write a short conversation about the usefulness of the family link app between a mother who spends much time on her phone, and her son who is successful at school and places family relationships above his phone. B

Write a short conversation between a mother and his son about their uses of their mobiles. They realize they would both need to change because they became addicted and it damages the family links C

Write a short conversation between a mother and her son about the usefulness of the family link app as he doesn't spend much time on screens whereas she does. D

Write a short conversation between a mother and his son about the family link app. The son got a bit addicted and his results have taken a drop. E

1. Pick up the key words for each prompt then find how they were translated / adapted in the dialogues by the AI.

Prompt	Key words	Quotes from the dialogues
A
B
C
D
E

Mother: Hey, I've been thinking about your phone use. Your grades are excellent, but I sense you're not thrilled with how much I use mine.

Son: Yeah, it's kind of frustrating. You're always on your phone, and it feels like you're not really here.

Mother: I hear you, and I appreciate your honesty. Maybe I need to cut back. How about we set some boundaries for both of us?

Son: That sounds fair. I just want us to spend more quality time together.

Mother: I totally get that. We'll find a balance. I also want to make sure I'm not setting a bad example.

Son: Exactly. It's not just about me; it's about both of us being more present.

Mother: Agreed. Let's make a pact to be mindful of our screen time and prioritize our moments together.

Son: Thanks, Mom. I think it'll make a big difference.

Mother: I'm proud of your maturity in bringing this up. Let's work on this together for a healthier family connection. 4

Write a short conversation about the usefulness of the family link app between a mother who spends much time on her phone, and her son who is successful at school and places family relationships above his phone.

B

2. Imagine a prompt to get a new dialogue written by an AI.

Step 1: read the text below and underline the key points

Man: (looking up from his phone) You know, we used to talk and spend time together. Lately, it feels like we're just glued to our screens.
Woman: (still engrossed in her phone) Oh, come on. It's just a way to unwind after a long day.
Man: But that's the thing, we're unwinding separately. We're right next to each other, but it's like we're in different worlds.
Woman: (rolling her eyes) It's not a big deal. Everyone uses their phones.
Man: (sighs) It is a big deal when it affects our relationship. We need to reconnect, have real conversations instead of staring at screens all the time.
Woman: (defensively) I'm not addicted. I can stop anytime I want.
Man: (smirking) Says every addict ever. Seriously, let's try a phone-free night tonight. Just you and me.
Woman: (hesitant) Fine, but I don't see what the big deal is.
[Later that evening, after a phone-free dinner]
Man: (smiling) See? This feels nice, doesn't it? We should do this more often.
Woman: (reluctantly) I guess it's not that bad. But I still don't think I'm addicted.
Man: (teasingly) We'll see about that. Maybe we can make this a regular thing—quality time without screens.
Woman: (softening) Okay, maybe. But just for tonight, alright?
Man: (grinning) We'll take it one step at a time.

Step 2: list your key words for these key points

Step 3: write your prompt and give it to your teacher for it to be submitted to an AI

Step 4: compare the dialogue you got.

Underline the potential missing points or the inaccurate parts.

Adapt your prompt and submit it again.